

YOU NEED TO PURIFY YOUR ORGANISM

November 6th 2018

In recent years, there are more and more toxins that we are exposed to, for example, in food, such as the artificial fattening of animals, toxic spills to our seas and oceans, chemical fertilizers and pesticides and preservatives, flavors, flavorings, etc. that invade us.

It is necessary to add the elaborated products, which are more and more available to us every day: more than 80% of the products on the shelves of the supermarkets in which we usually buy are made.

On the other hand, we must take into account all the new toxins that we find in our environment, from the new emissions to our atmosphere, to the chemical products that we use for the cleaning of our home or our personal hygiene. We must also highlight the importance of the electromagnetic pollution that surrounds us through mobiles, wifis, repeater antennas, etc.

All these new toxins are added to those created by the organism by the new type of accelerated life that we have been in recent years, generating significant stress.

Our body is not used to them, since we need several generations to gradually adapt to all this toxicity and it is clearly not the case, since only in thirty or forty years we have surrounded ourselves with all these new homotoxins.

This alarming situation produces a significant increase in chronic diseases (more than 19 million chronic patients have been counted in Spain) and the increase in acute processes such as strokes, heart attacks, etc. Another very significant fact is the appearance and exaggerated evolution of new ailments, such as chronic fatigue syndrome, chemical sensitivity or fibromyalgia.

Little more than 20 years ago there were no known cases of fibromyalgia; However, in recent years the number of them has grown alarmingly (more than one million people affected in Spain are counted). And the worst thing is that this figure continues to increase daily. We are convinced that these alarming data are a consequence of all the new toxins mentioned.

This leads to a prevailing need to purify ourselves, since at present our filters, that is to say, the organs in charge of the purification of our blood and, in general, of our organism, like the liver, the kidney (causing the retention of liquids), the lung, the skin and the intestine, are currently overburdened.

In the market we find different products that help in the purification of our body, some more focused on draining the liver, others on the kidney, blood or lung.

In Ondalium we trust that the Concentrated Liquid Extract of Black Garlic \(BGCFE\), in drops, is by far the most complete depurative and detoxifier, since it helps us to clean all our filters without exception, as well as to clean the tissue that surrounds our cells, which is preventing them from oxygenating and nurturing optimally.

If we concentrate all the active principles of black garlic in a bioavailable form, they will reach the depths of our tissues in a very direct way, helping to purify and to the health of our entire organism. In addition, this extract stimulates the natural mechanisms of cellular detoxification.
